

Magic Pathfinding with author Rose Stauffer

A top-down view of a rustic wooden surface. On the left is a dark, textured book with gold accents and a metal ring. In the center is a large, ornate black key. To the right are two lit candles in wooden holders, a quill pen, and various dried flowers and herbs. The scene is lit with warm, low-key lighting, creating a magical atmosphere.

Welcome to my little magazine!

Welcome, magic lovers!

This magazine is a place for sharing with you some of my ideas, inspirations, experiences, musings, and an array of creative endeavors that will inspire and enhance your own journey with finding the magic and joy in your everyday life. Many of you have found your way here after reading my books or hearing about them. This newsletter is a spin off from the books and will offer glimpses into how I found and created my own path into living a life filled with more passion and joy.

Each month, I will share snippets of writing, photos, recommendations, and links to content I am currently inspired by. I hope to keep the content succinct so you can read it within a 5-10 minute range. I don't know about you, but I'm busy and can't always give a lot of time to reading all the wonderful offerings out there on social media platforms, and the positive online communities many of us are subscribed to. Also, I want to offer a space that doesn't focus on selling something or signing up for something. All you have to do is read a short missive to relax, enjoy the photos, and be inspired to try magic making your way.

In the month of January, after the holidays are over, I like to put away all the decorations and allow the spaces in my home to relax and breathe in stillness and simplicity. I enjoy turning small areas or surfaces into vignettes that express my desired intentions. Below is a photo of my foyer table, and it is now simply adorned with candlelight and a statue of a stag - so common in my neighborhood - letting it bring warmth to indoor spaces while the cold, blue light dims outside. As you follow my magazine this year, you will see how much I love creating what I call "pop-up" alters that express my creativity and set intentions for the desires of my heart. Then I take them down, change them up, tuck them away. Window sills, mantles, a shelf, side tables are all good places to set some objects out. The photo on pg.2 captures my desk set up for a monthly zoom call with Ramona and Kathy, my sisters of the moon. (More about them later!) And note how my twin cats sat in zen like peacefulness during the call!

Thank you for taking time to read this missive. To refer your friends to this magazine, send them to my website where they can subscribe to it formally. Rosestaufferauthor.com.

See you next month!!!
